GERMANY NEAR SURRENDER

AUSTRIA DETHRONES KING

ITALIANS ENVELOP AUSTRIANS UPON CENTRAL PLAIN

Rome, Nov. 1.—The greatest military catastrophe of the whole war is developing on the Italian front. Italian cavalry is overrunning the whole plain of the Central Friuli, enveloping the Austro-Hungarian armies, according to advices from the front today.

The Austro-Hungarian front in the sector of Monte Grappa has completely collapsed and all of the hostile artillery has been captured by the Italians. It was officially announced today.

General Diaz, the Italian commander-in-chief, reported that "Prisoners were streaming down the mountain sides in batches."

The Italian tenth army has forced a crossing of the Livina river, and is now driving toward the Tagliamento, according to dispatches from the front. The Italian tenth and eighth armies are sweeping forward in pursuit of the falling Austro-Hungarian army, preceded by cavalry.

A semi-official statement, issued today, says:

"The battle which began on October 24 is won. The enemy is retreating hurriedly, leaving guns, prisoners and materials. He is leaving behind partially destroyed stores of supplies and also many horses. He is retreating in confusion."

Two Americans With Bayonets Drive Out a Nest of Gunners

With the American Army Northwest of Verdun, Nov. 1.—(By British Wireless Press)—Enemy resistance is beginning to break down. The Germans are withdrawing from many parts of the front with determination. However, and making like general disposition has yet set in. The enemy is endeavoring to delay his retreat as long as possible in order to remove vast quantities of material and stores.

BOSTON LEADS $6,866,416,300 LIBERTY LOAN

By International News Service.

Washington, Nov. 1.—The fourth Liberty Loan went over the top by more than $200,000,000.

Boston led all other districts in over-subscription today with a percentage of 124.44.

The Treasury Department this afternoon announced that the total subscriptions to the "Victory Loan" totaled $6,866,416,300, or 14.44 per cent more than the $6,000,000,000 quota that was set at the beginning of the drive.

OVER 21 MILLION SUBSCRIBED.

The estimated number of subscribers in excess of 21,000,000. In the first loan the number of subscribers was 1,500,000. In the second loan 2,500,000, and in the third loan 15,000,000.

Final figures, both as to the total amount of subscriptions and the number of subscribers, are not lacking, but results will not be final until the Treasury Department has received all the reports.

A particularly inspiring part of the campaign was the subscription of the 100,000 and of the men in the navy of more than $1,250,000. Boston led in the drive of more than $1,250,000. Boston led in the drive of more than $1,250,000.

NEW ABDICATION REPORT

London, Nov. 1.—Dr. Delbruck, chief of the German Privy Civil Cabinet, has left Berlin for the front on an important mission and it is supposed that he will present the decree of abdication of the Kaiser, said an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Copenhagen today. The advices come from the Vossische Zeitung of Berlin, which says: "Rumors on Thursday evening the Kaiser had abdicated are at least precipitate (premature?). The Kaiser has left for headquarters. At the last meeting of the War Cabinet abdication was discussed."

London, Nov. 1.—Panic prevails in the German provinces on the Rhine, said a dispatch to the Star today. The German newspaper Tagliche Rundschau explains that the German government is prepared to allow allied troops to occupy Coblenz and Cologne if necessary.

Washington, Nov. 1.—Officialdom waited with tense nerves today for the biggest developments of the war. The atmosphere was surcharged with excitement little concealed.

NOT GUILTY, IS MRS. SKEELS' PLEA

Lawrence, Nov. 1.—Mrs. Beatie May Skeels, indicted for the murder of Daniel J. Daley of Boston, her counsel, before Judge Hammond, in the superior court today, she pleaded not guilty and the case was continued to February 24. Mrs. Skeels was brought to court on a chair; she appeared to be in a weak condition.

When the clerk asked her to plead, she attempted to rise, but fell back. Daniel J. Daley of Boston, her counsel, rushed to her side and instructed her to remain seated, and answer by nodding or raising her hand. When the question was repeated, she replied, "Not guilty."

Dr. Francis J. Donaghy, physician and surgeon of the Massachusetts General Hospital at Boston testified that on September 2, at the request of Mr. Daley and others, he went to the Lawrence General Hospital to determine the condition of Mrs. Skeels. She was then very weak, he said, but was considerably worse of now. Other physicians agreed with the opinion that Mrs. Skeels' condition was very weak.

After the presentation of evidence that the Lawrence jail was not a suitable place for a woman Mrs. Skeels' health, although the jail was clean and suitable for a woman, Mrs. Skeels was removed to the Lawrence General Hospital. The judge refused this request and remanded Mrs. Skeels to jail.

President Wilson remained up until long after 1 o'clock this morning decoding personal messages from Colonel E. M. House. He was at his desk long before breakfast working on his replies, which were immediately placed on the cables. These messages carried, it is assumed, the final word of the United States on the armistice conditions and general outline of peace terms which are to be passed by the Supreme War Council at Versailles.

The final decision of that body may be a question of hours, officials who should know admitted. It was frankly admitted both at the White House and at the State Department that there was information here covering the most important developments of the war.

This cannot be made public now, not because there is any desire on the part of the President and Secretary Lansing to embark on a course of secret diplomacy, but because premature publication might prove very disastrous. However, it is promised that all of the facts will be told the American people as fast as it can be done in safety.

Meanwhile there is a belief here that the allied fleet, probably including some American units, may have passed through the Dardanelles.

The Black Sea fleet, taken over by the Kaiser's naval officers from Russia and supplemented by the Goeben and Breslau, which are reported again to have hauled down the Turkish crescent emblem and to have hoisted the German battle flag, is in the Black Sea. It is to be destroyed if it does not surrender.

GERMANS PLAN NEW RETREAT TO BORDER

By BERT FORD,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

With the American Army Northwest of Verdun, Nov. 1.—(By British Wireless Press)—Reports from the second American army of German activities indicate a new German retreat from the west of the Meuse river towards the German frontier. Metz is the pivot on which the retreat rests.

Enemy divisions are already reported to have reached German soil between the Meuse and Switzerland, hinting at an early abandonment of all territory west of the Meuse.

In connection with this reported withdrawal enemy artillery is being scheduled to great depth, and divisional and corps headquarters are being shifted to the rear. Outposts are being placed in closer reserve for rear-guard defense.

The enemy is apprehensive of an attack. Some prisoners say that they saw giant guns loaded on trains at Metz for quick transfer into Germany, although this is denied by other prisoners.

EMPEROR FLEES AS REVOLUTION SWEEPS AUSTRIA

Paris, Nov. 1.—The National Council is in control in Austria, and in Hungary all the public buildings have been seized by the Hungarian National Council, headed by Count Karolyi, said a dispatch from Zurich today. Officers and soldiers helped the crowd to seize government buildings, while there were cries of "Down with William and Karl" and "No more Hapsburgs, but give us a republic."

Revolt has broken out in Austria-Hungary. Revolutionists in both branches of the dual monarchy are sweeping all before them, according to a swift succession of dispatches from European news centres today. National anarchy is threatened.

Emperor Charles is reported to have fled from Vienna to Godollo, 10 miles southeast of Budapest, in a special train of eight cars. The crown jewels and quantities of food, money and furniture were taken by the imperial fugitive.

A Paris dispatch says that Prince Rohdenberg, German ambassador to Austria, has left the German embassy in Vienna for Berlin.

A provisional workmen's and soldiers' council has been formed at Vienna. This was established by the National Council at Vienna after meeting a delegation of soldiers, according to a Copenhagen dispatch.

An Austrian republic was proclaimed at Vienna, while Austria-Hungary was still in the hands of the emperor.

FIGHTING TO END THE MONTH, WASHINGTON OFFICIALS BELIEVE

Naval experts were waiting anxiously for word of a battle in the Black Sea. It was possible, they said, that the Germans would surrender. But the fleet is strong enough to put on a fight.

The German Emperor has left Berlin for Germany, great headquarters, according to information reaching here today. While officials have no information regarding the reports that he and the Crown Prince finally decided to abdicate in favor of the latter's eldest son, the twelve-year-old Prince Wilhelm, it will cause little surprise if this does take place. The report in diplomatic quarters said that the terms had already been transmitted to Germany and that was the reason why the Emperor had come to Great Headquarters.

German activity in the Baltic is also being watched. The entire Baltic is being watched. The entire Baltic is being watched. The entire Baltic is being watched.

the report that the Versailles council would tell the German and Austrian governments the conditions of peace at the same time. All things are so closely connected and so interdependent that it is difficult to say that they could not be discussed until the President himself authorized an announcement.

The world war, as far as actual fighting is concerned, will close the current month.

Official and diplomatic Washington was extremely confident of this today. It is based on the fact that the complete elimination of Turkey, already accomplished, the almost certain capitulation of Austria-Hungary before the end of next week, and the realization that, stripped of her allies, Germany cannot hold out more than three or four weeks at the outside.

SOVIET SLAYS COUSIN IN HUNGARY

Former Premier, Noted as a Duelist, Shot Down in Budapest Street

London, Nov. 1.—Count Tisa, former Premier of Hungary, was killed and one of his relatives wounded by a soldier while walking in the streets of Budapest according to a Central News dispatch from Copenhagen.

An Exchange Telegraph dispatch states that the assassination of Count Tisa took place in Vienna. This dispatch states that Count Tisa was shot and killed by a soldier and that a friend of the count was wounded.

Chief Events of Turkey's Part in the World War

October 30, 1914.—Following bombardment of Russian ports of Theodosia and Novorossiysk, and sinking of Russian ambassador Dondukov by Turkey, Russia declares war on Turkey.

November 5, 1914.—Great Britain and France declare war on Turkey. Great Britain annexes island of Cyprus, and declares Egypt, hitherto nominally a vassal state of Turkey, an independent nation.

February, 1915.—British open campaign against Turkey in Mesopotamia and advance to within 100 miles of Bagdad, but were defeated and forced to retire to Kut-el-Amara, where General Townshend later was forced to surrender after a long siege.

February-March, 1915.—British and French make ineffectual attempt to force passage of Dardanelles.

April-June, 1915.—British and French conduct land attack against Dardanelles defenses by way of Gallipoli peninsula, which is finally abandoned after heavy losses by attacking forces.

January 1, 1917.—Turkey declares independence, which is recognized by Germany and Austria.

February 25, 1917.—Kut-el-Amara recaptured by British under General Maude.

March 11, 1917.—Bagdad captured by British.

April 30, 1917.—Turkey severs diplomatic relations with United States.

May 13, 1917.—Germany agrees to assume war expenses of Bulgaria and Turkey.

December 8, 1917.—Jerusalem captured by General Allenby.

October 1, 1918.—Damascus taken by British.

October 31, 1918.—Turkey surrenders unconditionally to allies.

REVENUE OFFICERS IN AUSTRIA; BELIEVE NO FIGHT

British officers, with drawn swords in their hands, cheered the proclamation, says a Central News dispatch from Zurich.

Before Emperor Charles fled from Vienna he ordered the Austro-Hungarian authorities to "avoid all conflict with the people and to yield without resistance to the new order of things."

The Croats, formerly under Austro-Hungarian rule, have proclaimed a union with Italy, according to the Copenhagen dispatch.

Soldiers in the Austro-Hungarian navy are reported to have revolted and have seized the Pola fleet at the disposal of Hungary. Poles in the Austro-Hungarian naval base on the Adriatic.

The Slovenian soldiers are deserting their regiments and are plundering and murdering the civilian population.

Prediction of the "Greater Kingdom of Serbia" is reported to have been made by the Poles. It is expected to be released tomorrow at Vienna.

Three Allied Premiers With Foch and Geddes Are Guests of Col. E. M. House

Paris, Nov. 1.—Three prime ministers and other high officials conferred today at the residence of Colonel E. M. House, the personal representative of President Wilson. Those taking part were Premier Clemenceau of France, Marshal Foch, French Lloyd George of England, Sir Eric Geddes, first lord of the British admiralty, Premier Orlando of Italy, German and Austrian first lord of the British admiralty, General Tassier H. H. of the American army, and Admiral William S. Benson of the American navy. The group arrived simultaneously for an informal conference. There was evidence of the greatest cordiality as the officials met.

They also came to discuss the situation.

"Bravo," Is Cry of French Deputies on Hearing That Turkey Has Quit War

(Special Cable, Copyright, 1918, by Editorial Service.)

Paris, Nov. 1.—Admiral Layton, Minister of Marine, announced in the Chamber of Deputies on behalf of the government that an armistice has been signed between Turkey and the Entente.

This was the first news received in France of the completion at Mudros of the armistice negotiations.

When Admiral Layton announced the armistice took effect, the Chamber burst into uproarious cheers.

The reaction minister said he was unable to give details, but roused a new outbreak of enthusiasm when he stated the terms accepted by Turkey.

1.—Free passage through the Dardanelles and the Bosphorus by the Allies.

2.—Turkey is to lay down all her arms.

3.—Repatriation of all Allied prisoners taken by Turkey.

4.—The news of the outbreak of the war has the Chamber of Deputies seen the signs of jubilation, as that which greeted this announcement. All deputies jumped to their feet at one time, and there rose one long cry: "Bravo!"

Thereupon the session was temporarily suspended.

WAR SUMMARY

Less than a week's time was needed in the Summer of 1914 to plunge all of the great powers of Europe, save Italy, into the ravages of war. It is now assumed that the end may come almost as abruptly.

Events are moving quickly; so quickly, indeed, that the end may be realized far more rapidly than the various happenings. What is to become of Turkey, now that the Ottoman Empire has surrendered unconditionally; what will become of the conglomerate Austro-Hungarian dominions, the quondam rulers of the east, are apparently doubtful questions.

These are questions to be dealt with by the allied powers, collectively.

Doubtless the broad principles of peace determination, as set forth by President Wilson, will be followed as far as practicable in the settlement of the vexed questions now arising on the dismemberment of the Hapsburg dominions, but there must be a reasonable basis for just and exact adjustments.

Poland, Bohemia, an island of Czecho-Slovakia surrounded almost entirely by a sea of Germans, Transylvania, Roumania, and Armenia, are a considerable number of Magyar provinces of large cities are almost entirely Turkish.

So with the Slavonic portions of the Balkan peninsula. In each section there is a considerable mixture of races, leading to confusion of real issues and making difficult any real settlement of the question.

WAR SUMMARY

Less than a week's time was needed in the Summer of 1914 to plunge all of the great powers of Europe, save Italy, into the ravages of war. It is now assumed that the end may come almost as abruptly.

Events are moving quickly; so quickly, indeed, that the end may be realized far more rapidly than the various happenings. What is to become of Turkey, now that the Ottoman Empire has surrendered unconditionally; what will become of the conglomerate Austro-Hungarian dominions, the quondam rulers of the east, are apparently doubtful questions.

These are questions to be dealt with by the allied powers, collectively.

Doubtless the broad principles of peace determination, as set forth by President Wilson, will be followed as far as practicable in the settlement of the vexed questions now arising on the dismemberment of the Hapsburg dominions, but there must be a reasonable basis for just and exact adjustments.

Poland, Bohemia, an island of Czecho-Slovakia surrounded almost entirely by a sea of Germans, Transylvania, Roumania, and Armenia, are a considerable number of Magyar provinces of large cities are almost entirely Turkish.

So with the Slavonic portions of the Balkan peninsula. In each section there is a considerable mixture of races, leading to confusion of real issues and making difficult any real settlement of the question.

Only Slightly Injured

Providence, Nov. 1. — Lieutenant William R. Roberts of New York, pilot of the government airplane that came to grief in the woods near Hopkinton, is but slightly injured and will be able to leave the Rhode Island Hospital within a day or two. Hospital authorities state that his injuries are bruises and lacerations, but no broken bones.

His machine was completely demolished.

Lieutenant Roberts, accompanied by a sergeant of the army, was making

LETTERS REVEAL
LAST HOPE OF
GERMANSHigher Command Pleaded for Desperate Stand to Help
Peace PlanBy JOHN T. PARKERSON,
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

With the British Army on the Western Front, Nov. 1, (The Independent)—The desperate struggle of the German military to save themselves from doom is shown by a series of remarkable documents that have just been captured.

The higher command frantically pleaded with the German troops to hold back the British at all costs, particularly on the German Stellung system of defense. One document said that if the Germans held there the prospects would be good for carrying out peace negotiations or arranging an armistice.

Another document, marked strictly confidential, quoted the German higher command as saying that the possibility of an armistice depended upon the battle coming to a standstill. This and other documents, dated as late as October 12, directed attention of all officers to instruct their ranks that every man "must do his duty night and day."

BRITISH SWEEP AHEAD.

The English were not to be permitted to cross the Meuse river and the task of holding them up was given to the German artillery. But the British and Americans attacked with such irresistible pressure that they swept ahead to new victories in the face of almost insuperable obstacles.

British, French, Belgian and American troops in the meantime have continued their advance on other fronts.

What these continued successes had to do with Ludendorff's resignation may be surmised in the light of the disclosure of the "peace" days. It is probable that as he saw the great German war machine crumbling at his feet, and the impossibility of the Germans continuing indefinitely in the face of Marshal Foch's steady blows, he lost all hope.

At least 145 enemy divisions (1,725,000 men) have been engaged against Allied offensive operations since September 26. Fifty-nine were in the line and were reinforced by 59 reserve divisions. Of these 59 divisions 9 had been withdrawn and engaged a second time and 5 have been employed even a third time, making a total of 113 divisions engaged. On the Central Front, German front alone twenty German divisions are engaged.

CAN FURTHER WITHDRAWAL.

How the German plans and hopes have been shattered is shown by information from reliable sources during the past twenty-four hours. That a further withdrawal from the present front is contemplated is shown by the fact that various administrative departments have already left Brussels. The Germans are reported also to have begun a movement to the Aisne-Marne line and are apparently preparing to give up Ghent with slight resistance. In some instances, ammunition dumps are being hurriedly removed to Charleroi.

There is great and hurried preparation in the back areas for the demolition of canal locks, bridges, railways and so on, while the Germans are making preparations to invade the country by cutting canal dikes.

XMAS CARDS NOW READY FOR SOLDIERS

Red Cross Quarters Open; How to Send Your Parcel Overseas

"Do I get my Red Cross carton here?"

"How do I send my parcel to my boy overseas?"

These questions, with fifty-seven others, were asked at No. 211 Columbus avenue, where the Metropolitan Chapter of the Red Cross opened headquarters for the giving out of the official Christmas cards for the soldiers "over there."

Shortly before 9 o'clock Mrs. Robert Norton of Brookline took her stand before the counter and on the right of 9 received the carton that is to bear his Christmas cheer to her son, Robert R. Norton, second lieutenant of the 358th Field Artillery.

Uniformed workers, bearing the counter took the necessary records and Mrs. Norton departed, leaving under her arm the box that she must fill and return before November 26, if she wishes that love to reach her son by Christmas.

HOW TO SEND PARCELS.

Full instructions were given to each applicant and a Red Cross booth was presided over by Mrs. George S. Lundy, wife of Major Lundy, who has been overseas for more than a year, leaving Boston with the First Harvard Unit.

Each father and mother, each sister and sweetheart, told exactly what he or she must do. The new must not use more than 15 pounds fifteen ounces, unwrapped. It must contain no more than an ounce of any explosive nature, or poisons of any sort. It must be returned, unwrapped, by November 26 to the same station where it was secured. It will then be inspected, wrapped and labeled with the identical label that is in use in the Metropolitan branch to secure the carton.

As will then be left in the hands of the Red Cross until time for mailing.

All of this was explained over and over today. It will be explained again until November 26.

In addition to the headquarters at the Metropolitan Chapter, thirty and forty branches opened at district. At the Metropolitan headquarters, with half as many men, women and children as before, a carton has been induced into service.

OPEN EVERY DAY.

The branches and the chapters will be open daily from 9 in the morning until 9 in the evening. The hours will be from 12 noon to 5 in the afternoon.

Readily the stream of mothers, fathers, brothers and sisters, dressed past the counters from the opening hour. Standing in line, they saw, with the 2,000 soldiers that are estimated to be "over there" from Boston alone are provided for and each secured his box of Christmas cheer.

MINORITY FUND APPEAL NOT SANCTIONED BY B. & M.

The officers of the Boston & Maine Railroad neither knew nor approved of the request of the Boston & Maine Minority Stockholders' Protective Association, that they asked for contributions to the treasury of that association, according to a letter from C. A. Froudy, director of the Division of Public Service and Accounting of the Railroad Commission to the corporation committee. "My attention has been called to a circular issued by this association," says Mr. Froudy, "in which it is stated that anything paid for the promotion of this association will be allowed as a part of the reorganization expenses. I do not say that the court might require, or the directors approve, but people ought not to be led to think that he has already approved an activity of this organization."

UNION HAT CO. 139 Hanover St. Don't Forget the Number

Introducing 'Will' and 'Theodore,' Both 'of This Club'

By W. L. D.

Remember when it used to be "Hello, Will," "Hello, Theodore?"

Also recall when, because "Will" did not carry out "my policies" while Bwana Tumbo was killing lions in Africa, the whole world waited for the greeting between "our only two living ex-presidents" in the old days at the Summer capital on the old Bay State's North Shore at Beverly?

Again, despite the strained relations following the little difference in Washington, through the good graces of Senator Lodge, it was "Hello, Will," and "Hello, Theodore," for one pleasant Summer's afternoon.

Recalling the Bull Moose convention, the eight electoral votes for presidential candidate Taft, the gobos, ice-cream and glaciers and low temperatures and the long absence, between meetings of ex-President Taft and ex-President Roosevelt?

BOTH MEMBERS OF THE CLUB.

Then the staged meeting at the Union League Club in New York, where after years of separation the two former pals, the two ex-presidents, met and went through in strained, gesture gestures, a reconciliation.

Then, because of no political expediency, the drifting away and the old friends, each doing his particular self-conflicted stunt for the Republican party—now mostly an after dinner recumbent, the other the self-constituted head-quarters of the country with headquarters at Oyster Bay?

Well, there's a Congressional campaign on. It had to happen again, the reconciliation stuff. It was the Republican party in New York.

"Introducing Theodore and Will again, gentlemen, both members of this club."

AND THEODORE CHECKED.

"They sat down at the big table," runs the authenticated-for-public-consumption-report of the meeting as sent out from New York, "and according to eyewitnesses shook hands. Then they turned to writing their message—an appeal to the country to elect a Republican Congress—and shook hands."

"They were working quietly when Mr. Taft looked up and said, 'This seems like old times, doesn't it, Theodore?'"

"Mr. Roosevelt replied: 'He did not. (He future historians get this.) He smiled broadly."

"Did the heavens open? They did."

"Mr. Roosevelt chuckled as he answered, 'Indeed it does, Bill.'"

Verily, politics does make strange bed-fellows of us all.

U. S. Acts in Sugar Row Started in Restaurant

Goodman Levy, a salesman living on Harvard street, Mattapan, was fined $10 by Judge Murray in Police Court today because he created a disturbance in a Massachusetts avenue restaurant over a spoonful of sugar. The fine was later withdrawn and the case placed on file, while two men from the Department of Justice took Levy to the Federal Building for further examination.

It is claimed that Levy and a man named Sumner ordered coffee, receiving a spoonful of sugar with each cup.

"I'd like another spoonful of sugar," said Levy. "No wonder," said Sumner, "I'd like another spoonful of sugar," said Levy. "No wonder," said Sumner, "I'd like another spoonful of sugar," said Levy.

GERMANY STRONGLY COMBATS BOLSHIEVISM

Copenhagen, Nov. 1.—The German war cabinet is taking strong measures to combat the growing Bolshevism. It has ordered a Berlin dispatch today. The Germans are expelling many Russian imported into the country by M. Jaffe, the Bolshevism enemy to Berlin.

PEACE NEAR, DANIELS TOLD FITZGERALD

Former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald, addressing 1,500 workers at the Charleston Navy Yard today, suggested when he declared, "The last words I ever heard Daniels said to me were, 'Fitz, tell the citizens to wait a minute. It is my judgment, we will have an armistice within a few days which will mean the end of the war.'"

CUTICURA HEALS PIMPLES ON FACE

Over, Itched and Burned.

"When I saw blackheads and pimples on my face I used to pinch them out, and more would come. The pimples were big and hard, and red, and when I picked them they leaked over. They itched and burned, and made me so scratchy that I always had my face full of blood."

"Then I tried Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and after using two boxes I came out with the skin for two months. It was healed." (Signed)

A. B. Rock, 2 S. Walnut street, Waukegan, Conn., Feb. 8, 1918.

ACTRESS IS A DANCER AS WELL

Edith Day Jumps from School-girl to Prima Donna in Two Years

By FRED J. McISAAC

"Come, let's have a musical treat," relates an acquaintance and friend of Edith Day, who has just returned from a tour of the United States. Edith, who was very young when she first appeared on the stage, has in two years become a prima donna of the musical comedy. Two years ago she was a schoolgirl, looking for an opening in the show business.

Today she is a leading woman who has secured a personal hit. Next year she will be a star if she doesn't get it first. She is the Red Cross something.

GREY HAired WOMEN INCREASING SINCE WAR

London, Nov. 1.—There has been a great increase in grey hair since the war, due to the fact that many women have been subjected to the strain of the war.

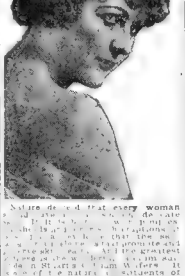

PREFER SPANISH FLU TO SMELL OF MOTH BALLS

Cleveland, O., Nov. 1.—A mother of five children, who has been subjected to the strain of the war, has been found to prefer the smell of Spanish flu to the smell of moth balls.

Two very good reasons for such Wide Variations in The Price of Quality

When you go shopping around for a suit of clothes this season and you're asked to pay $50 elsewhere for a well tailored, all-wool worsted suit that you can duplicate, if not surpass, at this Live Store for $35 (and other grades in proportion) it takes something more than our usual well-known merchandising economies to explain such remarkable price variations. Two things are responsible.

First—The suits and overcoats we are now selling are made from wools that we bought six to eighteen months ago before prices had advanced to anywhere near their present levels. No other concern that we know of made any such early or extensive preparations for these days of scarcity and high prices.

Second—We are resolved not to take any financial advantage of the high market or the people's willingness to pay more, but will sell these splendid qualities (some now unobtainable elsewhere at any price) on our regular small margin of profit—the narrowest margin on record for a men's clothing store.

And we shall continue on this basis until our reserve stocks are exhausted, so that our customers will feel very little effect from the war-time advance in clothing prices for possibly another year to come.

If you want a good $20 Suit of Clothes at But most men would $30 rather pay at least

We can show you lots of them at that price, and they're all wool, too. They haven't been slighted in the tailoring, either. In every detail they measure up flush with our well-known high standards. Finer qualities are priced $22.50 $25 $27.50 $32.50 $35 $38

Hats Every hat we sell has our name in it, which means that we're proud to have people know where such fine headgear came from. Those with our name alone are $1 to $5. Those with both the Kennedy and the Stetson names are $5 to $10.

If you won't be happy $45 unless you pay $40 or 45 Then we can contribute to your happiness in a very substantial way—either in extra quality at a given price, or in a lower price on a given quality. Either way around, your advantage in buying here amounts to at least $5 in any case and as much as $15 in many instances.

Shoes We sell exceptionally fine shoes, but we sell them at such low prices that some men don't realize what remarkable values they are getting until the wear proves the quality. Try a pair at $5, $6, $7, $8 or $9.

ACCUSE AIRCRAFT OFFICIALS

Hughes Urges Prosecution of Several Charged with Having Used Positions for Private Gain.

Washington, Nov. 1.—The long-awaited report on the sham court trial of the Hughes Aircraft Company officials, which was made public today, charges that several of the company's top executives had used their positions for private gain.

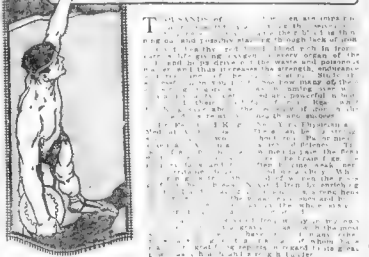

The report, which was prepared by a committee of the Senate, states that the company's officials had received large salaries and bonuses, and had used their positions to obtain contracts for the government.

The committee also found that the company's officials had used their positions to obtain contracts for the government, and had used their positions to obtain contracts for the government.

FOR INFLUENZA DRINK HOT WATER BEFORE BREAKFAST

Open sluices of system each morning and wash away the poisonous, stagnant matter, says authority.

A glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, drank each morning before breakfast, keeps us looking and feeling fit.

Life is not merely to live, but to live well, eat well, digest well, work well, sleep well, look well. What a glorious condition to attain, and yet how very easy it is if one will only adopt the morning inside bath.

Folks who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when they arise, splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, can, instead, feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the sluices of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the internal poisonous stagnant matter.

Everyone, whether ailing, sick or well, should, each morning, before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast.

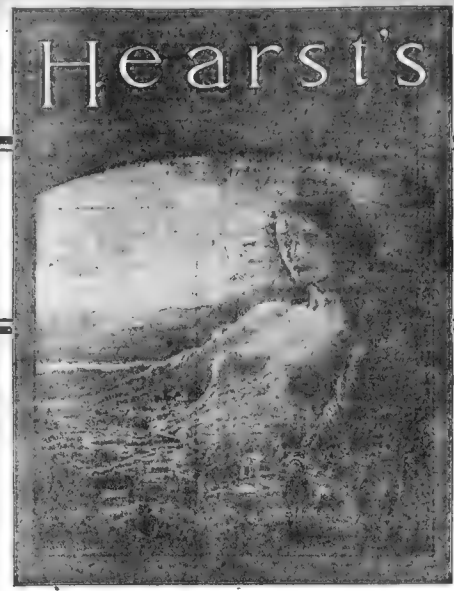

While you are enjoying your breakfast the water and phosphate is quietly extracting a large volume of water from the blood and getting ready for a thorough flushing of all the inside organs.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, bilious spells, stomach trouble, rheumatism; others who have sallow skins, blood disorders and sickly complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store, which will cost but little, but is sufficient to make anyone a pronounced crank on the subject of internal sanitation.

Coolidge Relies on Blind, Stupid Partisanship

It Is an Anomaly in American Politics for Candidates to Run Without a Platform

Mr. Richard H. Long, the Democratic candidate for Governor, in a speech at Lowell has called attention to an anomaly in American politics. Said Mr. Long:

The most astounding act in the recent history of Massachusetts politics was the arbitrary refusal of the machine leaders to call a convention of the delegates elected by the voters of this party and who are the only authority constituted by law to adopt a platform expressing the views, the hopes and the principles of the party.

In the language of a distinguished Senator of their own party they have brazenly denied to the regularly elected delegates "the right of free speech and of free action." Their action is patently and avowedly a political party. That they feared to face the action of the delegates, chosen by the people, on the vital issues of the day is evident.

The party has no platform. It has no principles. Its candidates are left in the position of men merely running for office. This unhealthy condition is augmented by the fact that the candidates for Governor decline to state his attitude on any of the issues. They seemingly prefer to take refuge behind the chairman of the Republican State Committee, which is boss-owned and boss-controlled.

Mr. Coolidge attempts to justify the refusal of the Republican committee to call the convention upon the ground that there was still some fear of influenza. But the Democrats dared to hold their convention the day before, and Mr. Coolidge is every day addressing public meetings in the promotion of his candidacy and BEGAN TO DO SO IMMEDIATELY AFTER THE DATE FOR HOLDING THE CONVENTION HAD PASSED.

It is something new in Massachusetts and in America to find candidates for great public offices such as Governor and Lieutenant-Governor offering themselves to the voters without revealing to the public the principles for which they stand or the policies which they advocate. One would think that this country had been metamorphosed and that it had ceased to be a "government of laws and not of men" and had become a "government of men, not of laws."

There never was such a reliance upon blind, stupid partisanship as Mr. Coolidge's candidacy for Governor without a platform and without a declaration of principles.

Not one man in a thousand in Massachusetts has ever met him personally, not one man in ten thousand knows anything about his public record; not one in ten would approve of his public record if they knew it, yet he offers himself for Governor relying merely upon the fact that he is the Republican candidate and that Republicans in Massachusetts will vote for him blindly.

O'Shaunnessy's Promotion to Senate Indicated

Rhode Island Democrats Pick Out Ablest and Most Popular Representative of Party

Every day as we near the election the prospect brightens that New England is going to answer the President's appeal, and realize the AMERICAN'S confident hope, by electing to the Senate the progressive Democratic candidate, Walsh of Massachusetts, Jameson of New Hampshire and O'Shaunnessy of Rhode Island, and defeating their three extremely reactionary and bitterly anti-Wilson partisan opponents, Weeks, Moses and Colt.

The indications that the voters of Rhode Island are about to promote Congressman O'Shaunnessy to the Senate in recognition of the finest record of his eight years in the House are especially strong. In his case, as in the others, the Democratic party has put its best foot forward and chosen as its standard bearer the ablest and most popular representative of the best element in the party.

Mr. O'Shaunnessy entered politics as a friend and active backer of that great Democratic reformer and champion of clean politics, Edward M. Shepard of Brooklyn, N. Y. In that contest he, an unknown young man, lost to the bar, had the temerity to defy Richard Croker himself and compel him to respect the election laws and permit an honest count in O'Shaunnessy's assembly district.

Removing to Rhode Island in 1897, he speedily won a standing that sent him to the General Assembly two years later and in 1901 elected him to Congress in a district where no Democrat was supposed to stand a chance of election. The Republicans thereupon gerrymandered his district to defeat him for re-election, but he won by an increased plurality and has been elected ever since, this being his fourth term in the House.

In Congress he has been a most alert and active supporter of President Wilson, as well as a faithful guardian of the commercial and industrial interests of his State. Of his aims and efforts he himself says:

Two years before war was declared by this country I realized that we would have to come in and do a man's part, and I began to advocate measures for preparedness. I was one of the foremost advocates of the conscription or universal service act, a law that placed the son of the poor man on an equal footing with the son of the rich man in the service and prevents the slacker, no matter how wealthy or influential, from escaping his duty.

I was the father of the first alien slooper bill in Congress, an act to prevent the cowardly alien from staying here and dodging by taking the jobs of our boys who were away at the front.

I have been a hard worker for improvements for Providence harbor, and one has had to go to Newport to see the marvelous things that have been wrought since the war started. It is not necessary for me to tell Rhode Island people of the part I took in the fight for Newport.

Black Island, it has been said, might be made the Heligoland of America. That is true, and, as Senator, I shall hope to do great things for the island. For another thing, I want to be in the Senate when our boys come back as veterans that I may be able to forward legislation that will give generous and hearty appreciation of their services.

I know that President Wilson has plans for a proper recognition of our boys after they return and to care for the dependents of those who will never return, and I shall hope to be able to take part in that operation. That is one of the big reasons the people are going to send me to the United States Senate.

These would be compelling reasons for the election of Mr. O'Shaunnessy in any campaign and against any ordinary opponent. They are doubly compelling in a campaign where so much depends upon giving to our harassed and over-burdened President a cordial and sympathetic backing in his almost super-human task, and when the opposing candidate, Senator Colt, is one of the reactionary, filibustering group of Republican Senators which is headed by Lodge and Weeks, and only less guilty than they of obstructing the administration's plans, prolonging the war and undermining so far as in them lay the influence and prestige of Woodrow Wilson here and abroad.

Success to Congressman O'Shaunnessy. May he win by a majority so large as to fitly testify to Rhode Island's appreciation of the President's achievements and her full understanding of the contemptible motives of the partisan opponents.

Bismarck and the Peace of 1871

By Morton Birge

"GERMANY wants peace, and will make war until she gets it, let the consequences be ever so lamentable from a humane point of view. France may perish like Carthage and other nations of antiquity. This peace will be secured by a line of fortresses between Strasbourg and Metz, as well as by those two towns, which will protect Germany against the dread of a second attack by France; the little fortresses lying between are of no importance."

Major Ruman of accepted Versailles met Bismarck again on October 21, 1870. In the course of discussion of the military restrictions and financial burdens placed upon Versailles by the Germans, Bismarck criticized the French people as not seeming to know "the real meaning of a state of war."

Question of Peace
Coming to the question of peace again, Bismarck declared no peace possible without a French election, that neither Count Chambard, the Orleans nor the Empress Regent could assume the responsibility of negotiating for France. The Iron Chancellor declared that Germany would be compelled to negotiate with Napoleon III and force him on France again.

When Mayor Ruman protested this as a "bitter insult," Bismarck rejoined:

"It is it is to the interest of the victors to leave the vanquished in the hands of an authority who can be supported by a Prussian guard, because war will not again be so easily contemplated."

Referring in this discussion was references to the kindly offices of the United States in trying to ease the deadlock. Bismarck said in this connection:

"America is the only country which really takes an interest in France. Four American generals (Sheridan, Burnside, etc.) have appeared to me regarding a peace. They were then in Paris, and on their return reported, 'Nothing can be done.' On February 21, 1871, three weeks after the surrender of Paris, conferences on peace preliminaries began at Versailles between Bismarck on one side and Louis Thiers, the French statesman-historian, and Jules Favre, French Minister for Foreign Affairs, on the other.

Bismarck's Terms
Bismarck said France must cede the whole of Alsace, including Belfort, the towns and fortifications of Metz and the greater part of the departments of the Moselle and Meurthe, in addition to paying a war indemnity of six milliards ($1,200,000,000).

His royal master consented to abate a milliard of the indemnity, reducing it to a round billion of our money.

Thiers and Favre, as historians relate, demonstrated that two-fifths of this would amply cover Germany's war expenses and that a billion was robbery.

Bismarck maintained that Germany was morally justified in demanding the cession of territory and the payment of five milliards. He was warned that loss of the provinces would cause another war. He retorted:

"We are aware of that; we reckon on a conflict and hope that we shall not be taken unawares." Thiers succeeded in saving Belfort for France, but Alsace-Lorraine was ceded and the indemnity remained at five milliards, or a billion dollars.

(It is pertinent to note that the bulk of this indemnity—a huge amount for those days—was deposited in gold in the Julian tower at Potsdam as a mortgage for a mighty Prussian war chest.)

TODAY

By Arthur Brisbane

How can any man talk of President Wilson except as one should talk of the successful servant of all the people?

Why does he ask you to support him with your votes at this election? Can anything add to his reputation or glory? Do you suppose that he wants anything, politics or office of politics from ANYBODY?

Can petty political success increase the reputation of one who, with swift firmness, has gloriously won in the greatest way in the world's history and rendered to humanity the greatest service ever rendered by any human being?

The President has work to do FOR YOU.

He asks you to give your vote to give him power to do the work that you want done. He asks nothing for himself, and you know it well.

The President must do the nation's war work as an individual. He must be true and he must trust himself as Lincoln did when he said that he would go ahead and get the approval of the people afterward.

In war Congress is the machine through which the President works. It should there to cooperate with him, to help him finish the task in hand, and prepare for the great task of reconstruction that is coming, not to pull chestnuts out of the fire, or by criticism and interference, to further the schemes of individual, corporate or party selfishness.

Who are the men that dare criticize Mr. Wilson for following his custom and addressing himself directly to you, the voters, asking you to support and uphold him? He was not talking to politicians. He talked to YOU, whose sons, brothers and friends are in Europe and must be brought safely back again.

What have his critics done that can compare with the service that Woodrow Wilson has rendered to the world? What evidence have they given of ability to do the work that you, whose sons, brothers and friends are in Europe and must be brought safely back again?

If you had lived in Lincoln's day, would you not have elected him to ask for your support, would you not gladly have given it? Would you not have remained at home and let Woodrow Wilson be no more official than you?

Woodrow Wilson is no more official than you. He is the Commander-in-Chief of the United States army and navy, the commanding officer of your son or brother in France. You have given him the power; he has used it wisely. He has asked you to support him, and he has asked you to support him.

What Does Mr. Wilson Want?
Nothing from You—Except to Help You. Vote With the Soldiers.

low citizens for support at this election was made for your sake, and it was an appeal, too mild, too general. It did not occur to one who has served you and your country so well that he need do more than suggest that you support him with your vote.

There are some of the things that the President, might have said. I have taken your soldiers safely to France, while my critics have said that I would not and could not do it.

I have provided for those soldiers in France hospitals, weapons, food, money, all that they need, while my critics, for political reasons, were accusing me of incompetency and neglect.

I have represented the spirit of America in my negotiations with your enemies, and I am about to negotiate the only kind of peace that this country will ever know, the peace of absolute victory and justice.

Much work remains to be done by me, whom you voters have chosen as your agent. And I ask that you elect Democrats to help me do your work; not critics to hinder me, or to pull chestnuts out of the fire, or by criticism and interference, to further the schemes of individual, corporate or party selfishness.

You know what work the President has to do for you. He is the Commander-in-Chief of the United States army and navy, the commanding officer of your son or brother in France. You have given him the power; he has used it wisely. He has asked you to support him, and he has asked you to support him.

He must have at his command, without stint, the resources of the nation to provide for those that offered their lives to the country in war.

He must have the absolute cooperation of Congress in meeting problems that will arise after the war, serious, dangerous, complicated problems, vitally important to the welfare and peace of mind of every woman, every business man, his little, every citizen working for a living.

How important does the President's work seem to you? Does it seem to you as important as that of a mechanic mending your car, or a plumber working in your kitchen when you send to him, someone to critique and blame someone to help?

Senator Weeks Voted to Keep Up Price of Everything

Greatly Disturbed Now He Makes a Ridiculous Excuse for Favoring Increase in Wheat Price

Senator Weeks has been, with very good reason, disturbed by the spreading of the news in this State that he voted to increase the price of wheat, notwithstanding the fact that the price of flour in Massachusetts would be thereby increased.

Mr. Weeks has made an attempt to explain and justify his vote. He says that he wanted the price to be high enough to get all the wheat into the market, but that the price set by the government of $2.20 a bushel was so low that the farmers in the West were feeding their pigs and their hens and cattle with $2.20 wheat!

Mr. Walsh makes the following reply:

Senator Weeks, in his speech at Lawrence last night, again admitted that he voted to increase the price to be paid producers of wheat from $2.20 to $2.50, which would have raised the price of bread to every family in Massachusetts. He admits that after Food Administrator Hoover, upon full investigation, had fixed the price at $2.20, and after President Wilson, in vetoing the bill, had pointed out that it would raise the price of flour $2 per barrel, he even voted to pass the bill over the President's veto.

He now answers that because the price fixed at $2.20 is too low the wheat producers are feeding wheat to their stock instead of sending it all to market. Does he expect the people of Massachusetts to believe that with a corn crop of 2,500,000,000 bushels, selling at $1.20 a bushel, and an oat crop of 1,400,000,000 bushels, selling at only 68 cents per bushel, the wheat producers are feeding to cattle wheat which they can sell at $2.50 per bushel, the price fixed by the food administration? And does he not know that all wheat is under government control and that any producer feeding wheat to his stock is violating the law and may be punished with heavy penalties? This part of his answer deserves no comment.

Was there ever a more ridiculous excuse made for a bad vote? The fact is that Senator Weeks voted to keep up the price of everything. He was dead against limiting the price of coal. If he had his way we would be paying sixteen dollars a ton for coal in Massachusetts today.

Mr. Weeks is not in the United States Senate to represent the general public. He is there to represent the big business interests with which he is associated. If the people of Massachusetts want that kind of a representative of course it is their right to have him.

No one can examine Mr. Weeks' public record and have the slightest doubt concerning what class of interests he represents. When our government, anticipating the nation's great lack of ships, introduced the first shipping bill, Mr. Weeks was prominent among that minority of senators, who, in the interest of the private shipbuilding plants, filibustered the bill to death.

Secretary of the Navy Daniels says that Mr. Weeks and his confederates by this act were largely responsible for our shortage in ships. And we add that patriotism and big business mix about as well as oil and water.

Public Servants or One-Year Autocrats?

The citizens of Massachusetts are to elect, next Tuesday, a Governor and a Legislature OVER WHOSE CONDUCT WHEN ELECTED THE VOTERS, AS THE CONSTITUTION NOW STANDS, HAVE ABSOLUTELY NO CONTROL.

The Bill of Rights, it is true, solemnly affirms the right of the people to "give instructions to their representatives," and the Legislature, after long prodding, passed the Public Opinion Act to enable such instructions to be given, BUT THE ACT HAS PROVIDED A DEAD LETTER, FOR REPRESENTATIVES "INSTRUCTED" UNDER IT HAVE CONTEMPTUOUSLY AND WITH IMPUNITY DISOBEYED THE INSTRUCTIONS, and have continued to vote directly against the lawfully expressed will of their constituents.

This being the case, it is VITALLY IMPORTANT TO KNOW IN ADVANCE whether the candidates who are now soliciting your votes MEAN TO REPRESENT YOU if elected, or to act regardless of your wishes, and POSSIBLY UNDER THE CONTROL OF THE SELFISH DEMANDS OF A HIGHLY ORGANIZED "INVISIBLE GOVERNMENT."

Fortunately you have at hand, this year, an infallible test, by using which you may know to a certainty whether your candidates aspire to be TRUE REPRESENTATIVES AND FAITHFUL PUBLIC SERVANTS OR ONE-YEAR AUTOCRATS, and that test is their stand on the Initiative and Referendum. Those who declare FOR the Initiative and Referendum in effect pledge their readiness to be guided in their representative capacity by the known wishes of their constituents. Candidates who OPPOSE or IGNORE it give grave reasons to fear that if elected they will be ready to DEFY the known wishes of their constituents IF SELF-WILL OR SELF-INTEREST point in another direction.

Ask your candidates the question. They are asking YOU to trust THEM as your agents. THEY SHOULD BE WILLING TO TRUST YOU TO KNOW WHAT YOU WANT, AND WILLING TO AGREE TO SERVE YOU AS AGENTS AND NOT rule YOU AS TEMPORARY GUARDIANS.

LEND HIM A HAND
Have you made any effort to help that man you know is trying to lift himself up—trying to be more of a man?

You have an idea he is going to backslide, perhaps, and you do not want any one to think you ever had anything to do with him, in your trouble.

If you could realize what it means to a man who is fighting some evil habit to have persons of a better character seem interested in him, you would be willing to do it to be hopeful about the encouraging word.

Before the man who is down and out takes the final brace for remade of living it is going to be, with those whose respect he wishes to gain. There are times in the lives of all men when they wish they were the sons of some other man who are in justly high esteem by those who know them.

When you come the thought that no matter how hard they may try, it is too late to gain the friendship of those who have never known what it is "fall by the wayside."

There is some one you know, having a hard struggle at the present time. He needs just the display of interest you can show. Hold out your hand.
